

UNIVERSAL GOGGLE

Bollé's Tsar is the first universal-fit goggle, thanks to B-Flex technology that allows the inner frame to gently conform to the contours of your face. No more pressure or air gaps, and the spherical lens boosts your field of vision; $109.95 and up at Paragon, Manhattan; backcountry.com (for more info, visit bolle.com)

HEATED INSOLES

Heat your feet with your phone? Yes, download the app for ThermaCELL Heated Insoles and you can control each foot's toastiness quotient. The new ProFLEX Heavy Duty version offers up to 8½ hours of warmth and a removable battery; $199 at select Dick's Sporting Goods stores and heat.thermacell.com

SOLAR GLOVES

New Solarsphere insulation in Seirus Brink and Ace gloves gets an assist from the sun — the gloves absorb the sun's infrared rays (even on cloudy days), heating up tiny hollow balls inside and upping the gloves' inner temp 10 degrees; $34.99 and up at Paragon, Manhattan; and seirus.com

FUNCTION IN STYLE

Obermeyer's Payton down jacket, launched this past fall, has all the function you need — it keeps you warm, dry, with tech pockets, articulated sleeves and a breathable fabric in chic menswear plaid; $399 at obermeyer.com (or look for the brand at Sundown Ski in Levittown and Farmingdale; Action Ski, Oakdale; Ski Stop, Plainview)

APRÈS SKI

There's something to be said for just chilling at the lodge in your cropped, cotton-blend Wildfox Freezin sweater; $158 at shopbop.com

SERIOUS WARMTH

Nobody does low temps in high style like Canada Goose. This season's new HyBridge Perren jacket, in water-resistant nylon, features 800-fill goose down and double-weave inserts at the elbow, underarm and hem for ease of movement; $750 at Canada Goose, Manhattan; and canadagoose.com (or find the line at Sun & Ski, Plainview; and Sno-Haus shops)

SHOPPING LOCAL

Merrick native Karyn Villante's daughter — after getting major compliments wearing one of Mom's old knits — asked a simple question: "Mom, why don't you make sweaters again?" Good question. The former knitwear designer turned stay-at-home mom decided to take up the challenge, and in 2014 launched Made Here New York, a line of plush sweaters and throws in cotton — all American grown and spun, made in Brooklyn and Bronx knitting mills; $74.95 and up at select West Elm stores; The Styleliner, Sag Harbor; madeherenewyork.com

HAUTE TO EMOTE

Some wear their heart on their sleeve. Forever 21 does that one better by splashing emoticons on their sleeves, leggings, jackets, you name it. The recently launched 28-piece Emoticon Collection, designed for girls and guys, includes tees, bodysuits, denim jackets and more emblazoned with patches and other emoji-inspired images. These Happy Face graphic leggings, in polyester and spandex; $17.90 at select Forever 21 stores and forever21.com

Looking to next season

It seems such a no-brainer — a collaboration between Tommy Hilfiger and Rossignol, the popular French ski and outerwear maker — that one wonders why it took them so long. The just-announced Tommy X Rossignol capsule collection, which will include men's winter sweaters, jackets, skis, helmets and more (about $150 and up), will flaunt the classic lines and red, white and blue color palette that both brands are known for. Look for it this October at tommy.com; till then, you'll find Rossignol at Sno-Haus, Sundown Ski and REI shops, and rossignol.com
